John 8:1-11

But Jesus went to the Mount of Olives. ²Early in the morning He came again into the temple, and all the people were coming to Him; and He sat down and began to teach them. ³The scribes and the Pharisees brought a woman caught in adultery, and having set her in the center of the court, ⁴they said to Him, "Teacher, this woman has been caught in adultery, in the very act. ⁵Now in the Law Moses commanded us to stone such women; what then do You say?" ⁶They were saying this, testing Him, so that they might have grounds for accusing Him. But Jesus stooped down and with His finger wrote on the ground. ⁷But when they persisted in asking Him, He straightened up, and said to them, "He who is without sin among you, let him be the first to throw a stone at her." ⁸Again He stooped down and wrote on the ground. ⁹When they heard it, they began to go out one by one, beginning with the older ones, and He was left alone, and the woman, where she was, in the center of the court. ¹⁰Straightening up, Jesus said to her, "Woman, where are they? Did no one condemn you?" ¹¹She said, "No one, Lord." And Jesus said, "I do not condemn you, either. Go. From now on sin no more."

Homecoming 2013

Jenkins Church wishes to extend a special invitation to everyone ever connected to Jenkins to come join us Sunday, October 20th for our 1st Annual Homecoming Celebration.

Join us for Sunday school, morning worship and a special homecoming fellowship meal.

Two of my favorite words are “coming home”! Jeanni and I have three college age children so the words “coming home” have been music to our ears for some time. Recently, Hannah called to tell us her internship was complete and she was coming home. Now Leah is at Bethel for another semester and we love to hear those same words. I still vividly remember my own college experience and phone conversations with my mom, saying, “I’ll be coming home this weekend.” I remember the feelings of excitement building throughout the day on Friday, the hurried trip home, the hugs and kisses when I came walking through the door, and finally the relaxation, the home-cooked meals, the piles of dirty clothes dumped onto the laundry room floor, and my own bed.

Coming home is a great experience. I can only imagine how the prodigal son must have felt when he crossed over the last hill and saw home and his dad running to meet him. Everybody needs a place to call home. Sometimes we find ourselves out on our own with no place to call home, and little by little the load gets heavier. The road gets longer and before we realize it we are worn out and we do not really know why.

You have probably heard the old wise saying, “A house is not a home.” This can be especially true where it concerns our spiritual lives. We make our way through life and we become as comfortable with our situation as we possibly can, but something of vital importance is missing. We try to fill the void with things we hope will inspire us, but still something is missing. We need to find our home.

The book of Ephesians states, “We are God’s workmanship created in Christ Jesus for good works which He prepared beforehand, that we should walk in them.” Jesus is the head of the church, so we can be assured the work God has prepared for each one of us will find its fulfillment within the framework of the church. God is calling all of us home to our church where we can be completely fulfilled, connected and walking in our God given purpose.

Homecoming is a wonderful opportunity to renew relationships, but it can also be a time to reconnect with our faith community and rekindle the flames of our own faith. My prayer often sounds like this: “God, you have called many people in this community to be a part of this church. Many of them do not even realize it yet, but I am asking You to call them from the north, the south, the east and the west. Bring the people who are supposed to be in this church and plant them here that we may all grow up in Christ Jesus and do the works of ministry You have planned for us to do. In Jesus name I ask it. Amen!”
